

MOB DOING RESEARCH FOR MOB

Your knowledge.
Your community.
Your research journey.

JOIN OUR 2027 INDIGENOUS PhD FAMILIARISATION PROGRAM

Are you an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander person working in health, community services, social and emotional wellbeing, or another field that supports the health and wellbeing of our mob?

If you've ever considered further study to expand your career opportunities, want to learn more about research and how it can create positive change for communities, or have wondered what a PhD involves and whether it could be the right path for you, then this program is for you.

3-4 MAY
2027

UNIVERSITY OF MELBOURNE

FULLY FUNDED Travel, meals accommodation

CONNECT

with other mob, Indigenous researchers, academics, and current PhD candidates research ideas, Indigenous research methodologies and research career pathways.

EXPLORE

LEARN

about scholarships, supervisors, and the PhD journey and application process

DISCOVER

how your knowledge, lived experience and connection to community can strengthen the health and wellbeing of our people through research.

APPLICATIONS CLOSE 1 DECEMBER 2026

LETS YARN

For more information or to request an application form, please contact Magenta Staar Highfield magentastaar.highfield@unimelb.edu.au or apply by scanning the QR code

